

SAVE THE DATE

Workshop CORFU Nice
“Flood resilience in urban areas – the CORFU project”
IMREDD, Tuesday 10th of June 2014

Dear Sir/Madam,

We have the pleasure to invite you to the Workshop CORFU Nice, which will be held on the 10th of June 2014 in Innovative City Lab IMREDD 1-3 bd Maître Maurice Slama, Nice.

Save the date!

This workshop is organized in the framework of the European project CORFU. Its main goal is to present the results after four years of research, at both general level and specifically for the Nice case study. The several speakers will talk about flood resilience in cities, presenting the most advanced tools and methodologies to manage flood risk in urban areas.

CORFU is a European project coordinated by the University of Exeter in which 18 European and Asian institutions participate. For the last four years, the project has promoted collaborative research on urban floods, allowing the several partners to learn from each other. By doing this, state-of-the-art tools and methodologies have been developed, being able to increase urban resilience and manage flood risk.

Following, a list of the partners that have participated in the project since 2010 can be found:

Project partners

University of Nice Sophia Antipolis
University of Exeter
The AREP Group
National Taiwan University
International Centre for Urban Hydroinformatics in Incheon
Institute of Water Modelling in Dhaka
Indian Institute of Technology
Hyds
Hamburg University of Technology

Hamburg Institute of International Economics
Dura Vermeer Business Solutions
DHI Water & Environment
Cranfield University
China Academy of Urban Planning and Design
CETaqua
Beijing University of Technology
Beijing Municipal Institute of City Planning and Design
Aqualogy

Shortly you will receive the detailed agenda of the event. In any case, if you wish to have more information doesn't hesitate to contact us through the following email:

jelenabatica@gmail.com and philippe.gourbesville@unice.fr

Yours sincerely,

The organizing team of Workshop CORFU Nice

